Art Unit: 3748

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 3812682 (Johnson).

Johnson discloses in the embodiment of figure 13 a multistage Stirling engine comprising two cylinders 142, 143, a pair of displacer pistons 144, 151, a pair of power pistons 146, 153, two heat exchangers are mounted between those cylinders 142, 143, said heat exchangers comprises a heater H, a regenerator R, and a cooler C, output shaft being connected with an electric generator 60.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 4020635 (Joynes et al).

Joynes discloses in the embodiment of figure 1 a multistage Stirling engine comprising two cylinders 1, 2, a pair of displacer pistons 5, 6, a pair of power pistons 7, 8, two heat exchangers are mounted between those cylinders 1, 2, said heat exchangers comprises a heater (29, 30), a regenerator (33, 34), and a cooler 31, 32.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. 3812682 (Johnson). Johnson discloses all the claimed subject matter as set forth above in the rejection of claim 1, but does not disclose the specific location of the generator and the heat exchangers are in the same unit. However, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to locate the generator in that specific location and to put the heat exchangers in the same housing for the purpose of achieving a more compact structure.

Claims 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. 4020635 (Joynes et al). Joynes discloses all the claimed subject matter as set forth above in the rejection of claim 1, but does not disclose the specific location of the generator and the heat exchangers are in the same unit. However, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to locate the generator in that specific location and to put the heat exchangers in the same housing for the purpose of achieving a more compact structure.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Cowan, Hogan, Gestmann et al disclose the concept of placing the two heat exchangers between two cylinders of Stirling engines.
